

EU PROTECTION FOR WHISTLEBLOWERS THE FUTURE OF THE NEW DIRECTIVE

CIVIL SOCIETY EVENT

TO MARK THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT'S ADOPTION
OF A NEW DIRECTIVE TO PROTECT WHISTLEBLOWERS

15H00 –
16H00
17APRIL

EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT
STRASBOURG
ROOM R3.1

In the final session before the EU elections, the European Parliament will vote for a new EU Directive to protect whistleblowers in Europe. Civil society played an essential role in making this happen.

Press, politicians and civil society will gather to assess this landmark break-through in legal rights for citizens acting in the public interest, and how it will help to strengthen transparency and accountability in Europe.

As the scandals revealed by whistleblowers in LuxLeaks and Panama Papers investigations continue to reverberate around Europe and the world, and new information sheds light on wrongdoing affecting our financial systems, our food, and our environment, we also take a moment to highlight the work ahead.

Our work is to turn legal rights into active protection and to advance whistleblowing disclosures to achieve lasting change in the public interest.

REGISTER AT HTTP://TINYURL.COM/WHISTLEBLOWERPROTECTION

SPEAKERS

Chaired by Sylvain Waserman, MP (Vice-président de l'Assemblée nationale), Rapporteur on whistleblower protection, PACE Committee on Legal Affairs and Human Rights, Council of Europe
Virginie Rozière, MEP – Rapporteur on whistleblower protection, Committee of Legal Affairs, European Parliament
Pascale Durand, MEP – Committee of Legal Affairs, European Parliament
Antoine Deltour, former auditor with PwC and LuxLeaks whistleblower
Nick Aiossa, Transparency International EU
Martin Jefflén, Eurocadres
Anna Myers, Whistleblowing International Network (WIN)

IN COOPERATION WITH